

Peter Hartung

Peter Hartung studied precision engineering and has extensive experience in setting up medical technology companies and coaching in the areas of quality and process management, regulatory & clinical affairs and life cycle management. He works for seleon since 20 years and is responsible for the development, manufacture, compliance with the regulatory requirements and approval of a wide range of medical devices of the customers he advise.